CITY TRUSTEES

Want P. E. to Continue on Freight Business—Change in Street Numbering Suggested

All present. After reading of the minutes, various committee reports were taken up. The ordinance and judiciary committee were given additional time to prepare a draft of new ordinance in regard to fire districts. The special committee appointed to confer with the Western Empire Company in regard to an option on certain water bearing lands in Verdugo canon, reported having had a communication from that company (Messrs. Hartranft and Jones) agreeing to a conference. The communication was placed on file. The report of the manager of the electric lighting department in regard to supplies for the coming year, was read and accepted. The report of the tax collector was received and filed. The manager of the electric light works reported progress in securing rights of way for pole line in Valley View tract.

E. M. McClure appeared before the board in the interest of an advertising proposition asking for an advertisement by the city in the pamphlet being prepared by him. The matter was debated and finally it was informally agreed that the board will probably donate $100 if the character of the proposed publication is as represented.

John Moody made application for permission to construct a cement sidewalk on Lomita between Adams and Belmont; granted. Similar application from E. D. Reinolds, for sidewalk in Lomita Park, granted. Application from Evans and Burns, for improvement on Second street, granted. Ornamental lighting project postponed one week. A number of demands approved by committee to which referred, were read. Tn ordinance regulating the use of certain streets was passed third time and finally. The city engineer recommended that the city agree to allow $20 a month for the hire of an extra horse on the streets, having in view a certain specified horse, warranted to stand without hitching and to be perfectly reliable in his waking moments. The horse was allowed.

A resolution was adopted awarding contract for supplies to the Westinghouse Electrical Supply Co. Mr. E. D. Goode appeared before the board with an amended application for franchise, which was accepted and the city attorney directed to prepare an ordinance advertising the franchise for sale. The change in the route followed to the west city limits is one substituting Vine street for Seventh street, as an outlet west from Pacific.

Mr. Coker drew attention to the report that the board of public utilities in Los Angeles proposes to recommend that the Pacific Electric railway be prohibited from hauling freight through the streets of the city of Los Angeles on its interurban lines. He stated that such action if carried into effect would be a great detriment to the city of Glendale and vicinity as the services of the Pacific Electric in the capacity of a freight carrier and requested the appointment of a committee to appear before the board of public utilities in Los Angeles to make protest. The committee appointed consisted of Chairman White, Messrs. Coker, Lane and City Attorney Evans. Mr. Lane brought up the matter of renumbering the streets, having Brand boulevard as the dividing line to number east and west from, instead of Adams street, as at present. He also wished that the duplication of the names of streets having similar appellations, be attended to and remedied. A motion made by Mr. Lane to take action looking to this change in the system, failed to get a second. A resolution prepared by the city attorney to be presented to the board of utilities in Los Angeles in regard to the freight carrying privileges of the Pacific Electric was adopted.

SURPRISE THEIR FRIENDS.

Taking a run down to Santa Ana on Thursday of last week, Miss Ethel Nelson and Mr. Cyril Wilde committed matrimony, and returned to receive the congratulations of their friends, who had no idea that the affair was so serious. Both have a large number of friends, who wish them all possible happiness in their married life, which they will begin as home-makers in a pleasant cottage on Fifth street, east of Glendale avenue, where they will be at home after Feb. 15th.

ACCIDENT TO W. B. VAIL.

Mr. W. B. Vail, in the employ of L. W. Chobe, fell from a porch to the sidewalk, a distance of fifteen feet, while at work on Raleigh street last Saturday afternoon. He sustained a compound fracture of the arm near the shoulder, his wrist being badly sprained also. Mr. Chobe took him to a Pasadena hospital, where he is getting along as well as could be expected.

SAM SMALL TO SPEAK IN GLENDALE.

This noted evangelist is to appear in Glendale next Tuesday evening, the 30th, at the First M. E. church. The Rev. Small is an unusually entertaining speaker and will no doubt draw a large audience.

ANNEXATION

The Conflict Deepens—Both Sides Have Large Meetings—New League Organized—Trustee Watson On the Subject

There are 559 registrations of electors in Tropico election district number one, most of which is comprised in the territory proposed to be annexed to Glendale on Feb. 12th.

LARGE ANNEXATION MEETING.

A big meeting was held at the M. E. Church, Casa Verdugo, Wednesday evening, by the North Glendale Progressive League, in the inetrest of annexation. Mattison B. Jones made an effective talk, and after him came Hon. L. C. Gates of Los Angeles, who entertained the large audience for an hour with his logical eloquence. Both speakers made a strong appeal for the welding toegther in one municipality of Glendale and vicinity.

The North Glendale Progressive League has issued a circular to voters and property owners in which the following advantages to be gained by annexation to Glendale are set forth.

The securing of one of the best grammar schools in the valley.

To make it possible to enter Los Angeles ultimately as a borough.

The securing of Owens river water.

The protection of the water supply of Verdugo Canon.

The improvement of streets.

Reduction in price for electricity and the putting in of meters without cost.

The protection of property from the menace of the Verdugo Wash.

The improvement of Brand boulevard and other thoroughfares.

The statement shows that the present county tax rate in the Casa Verdugo section is $2.60 a hundred. If in the city of Glendale it would be only $3.17 a hundred, an increase of only 57 cents, more than which increase would be saved by the users of electricity on that item alone.

MEETING OF CASA VERDUGO IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION.

The meeting of this association called for Thursday evening of last week resulted in a packed house, the church building being much too small for the occasion. Mr. E. J. Young acted as chairman of the meeting and made one of the principal talks. Mr. R. H. Wilson spoke in reply to the circular issued by the Progressive League, taking up seriatum the arguments put forth in that statement and giving his views in regard to them. Mr. Mesnager, who recently sold his property in Vedugo Canon to the Western Empire people, made quite a long talk. This gentleman speaks with considerable French idiom but he made himself understood and protested vigorously against his property being annexed to the city of Glendale. Mr. Blodgett devoted his speech to the tax issue asserting that the city of Glendale would be the gainer by about $15,000 if Casa Verdugo should be "taken in." Col. Tom Thornton entertained the audience in his own inimitable manner. He spoke of the "injustice" of leaving out the Thom and Ross ranches in the proposed territory to be annexed and supported Mr. Sidney Dell's idea of a road from west to east through these places. Mr. F. McG. Kelly, favoring annexation, added a little variety to the talk by speaking in favor of the proposition. He stated that some of the statements made by other speakers lacked the merit of truth and as for himself he expected to sell his property and move into the city of Glendale if annexation failed to carry. The Casa Verdugo orchestra rendered selections which had a soothing effect that was appreciated by all.

WHY ANNEXATION?

Casa Verdugo has reached the point in her development where more detailed legal provision for public improvement must be supplied. It is apparent to all that street improvement, street lighting, fire protection, cheaper electric lights and a better control of all public utilities is needed. Provision is made for such needs in municipal law. Casa Verdugo by becoming a part of the city of Glendale will be enabled to make all such improvements, and the present movement to that end is in line with what all other progressive communities do under such conditions. Prosperous incorporated communities all around us give evidence of the wisdom of such a step. To oppose such a movement is to place ourselves against a universal rule. Such an extraordinary position should be supported by strong argument.

A few misleading and ungrateful remarks about the city of Glendale are not sufficient. The statements that the city of Glendale cannot pay its debts are falsehoods, as anyone can ascertain by an examination of the records. The statements that the city of Glendale is bonded to its limit, and is seeking more territory in order to vote more bonds, are ridiculous as well as false. The fact is that an election is called for February 2 to vote bonds in the sum of forty thousand dollars for the purpose of exetnding the lighting plant to West Glendale, and then the city will not have reached 50 per cent of her bonding capacity.

I wonder if these people who are making so much noise about leaving out the Ross and Thom ranches know that nearly one hundred acres of those ranches are now a part of the city of Glendale, on which their owners have been paying city taxes for six years, and that the proposed annexation will add nearly one hundred acres more of these ranches to the city, to which they agree, it being necessary to the plan of protecting our water supply. They have also agreed to give the city of Glendale a deed to Glendale avenue north to Verdugo Road if this election carries. They have always let the people of North Glendale travel across their property along the wash to Glendale avenue. I would like for Col. Thornton or Sidney Dell or any other eminent attorney to tell us how the annexation of those ranches would give us a street across them in opposition to the will of their owners. Municipal law enables us to do a great many good things, but it does not enable us to get something for nothing.

Now as to the statement that we are trying to annex a lot of land in the canyon for the purpose of increasing the valuation of taxation. There is just one reason that would justify us in annexing the canyon, and Casa Verdugo is equally interested with the city of Glendale in that—the protection of the purity of our water supply. I wonder if the people of Casa Verdugo and Glendale are aware of the fact that an effort is being made to cause a city to be built right on the lands over and through which the water we drink runs and percolates, and that the promoters of that enterprise presume to advise Casa Verdugo and Glendale what we should do about it.

Nature has placed an abundance of pure water at our very door, and are we going to leave it to outsiders to say what provision shall be made to ensure its purity? If it is best for us to control our street improvements, our lighting department, our fire and police protection, is it not also best for us to control through our own city ordinances the sanitary conditions of our water supply? And to do this, we must annex the Verdugo Canyon. The upper end of the canyon is a vast gravel bed, through which the water slowly percolates, coming to the surface near the middle of the canyon, and for the complete protection of the water the whole canyon must be included. By taking the water into pipes out of the clean gravel before it comes to the surface, and making provision for carrying it down the canyon below that point, we would make possible the settlement of the canyon without endangering our water supply. We are all agreed that such measures are necessary; only certain real estate boomers want us to depend on their good intentions for the doing of it.

Citizens of Casa Verdugo and Glendale, do you not think we should have something to say about it? If you do, vote for annexation.

T. W. WATSON.

HOME LOVERS CIVIC LEAGUE.

Was organized at the home of Mrs. Julius Kranz on Brand boulevard last Friday. Seventeen wide-awake women were the charter members and the officers are Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president; Mrs. Charles Huey, vice president; Mrs. J. F. Padelford, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. P. A. Kranz, program committee; Mrs. Julius Kranz, hospitality committee; Mrs. Allen C. Ady, membership committee.

There are seventeen more members ready to come in, and the league meets every Friday afternoon. The following will explain what the league hopes to accomplish:

Our Homes.

We do not doubt but that every woman in our community prides herself upon her good housekeeping and home-making ability. If she does not she should. There are many things which are a detriment to our homes and home-life which we have a perfect right to discuss and to try to find a remedy. For instance, How many of you women enjoy the untidy appearance of our residence streets? We have been called the "ragged edge of a thriving city."

Do you relish the idea of being on the outskirts of a clean paved and lighted city when we could have all these advantages? We do not believe any true, progressive woman is satisfied with such conditions. But you say, how can we secure these things?

The quickest way is to become annexed to the city of Glendale and then as a Civic League to present to the trustees our desires for these improvements.

We now have the power of ballot and men dare not refuse to lend ear to our request. Men are ever proud to do service for true womanly women, who are conscientiously trying to improve their home surroundings.

Of course, some women are too womanly to ask for their rights or to vote on anything, even if it be a school for their children. They are too womanly to wish their streets to be clean and too womanly to do anything which might stand for general progress; but we dare say their conscience will prick for neglect of these things some day. We do not have to be politicians to see our duty, nor are we wasting precious moments when we are considering the best ways and means of securing the kind of outdoor housekeeping that is needed to give us the right setting for our homes.

So much for the beauty we might enjoy. Now let us look at it from a sanitary standpoint. Is not the health of our children our business? Is it not our business to assist in the securing of pure milk and pure foods? What shall we do when a cess-pool overflows and some one neglects to attend to it? Wait for the county to inspect it and have our children breathing poisonous air? This might happen in any of our thickly settled streets.

What shall we do if our water source is polluted? Wait until we have an epidemic and then say "O, why were we so blind?"

We have no ordinances to control any of these things nor can we have unless we belong to a city with power to enact and enforce.

Now these are not presented for fancy, but are cold facts; and if we as a band of progressive women cannot be brave enough to do what we feel is right and our duty as mothers and home-makers, we are not worthy the name. We have nothing to be ashamed of in trying thus to assist progress; rather should we be ashamed if we see millstones around the neck of home children.

We hold no woman has a right to take part in any public work which does not center in the home and reflect credit upon the home which she loves. Therefore we as true women and good citizens, if you please, should strive to make our home surroundings the very best in our power.

Do you think the Casa Verdugo Improvement Association can give us these things?

Has it done so?

We all have brains enough to know that a town can do nothing or be nothing in a civic way without ordinances to govern it. So why not join forces with a beautiful city which has all these things and come in for our share. Is fifty cents more on each $100 of assessed valuation of property too big a price to pay?

So many say, "We'd rather wait three years and go into Los Angeles. Our needs will grow very tall in three more years, so tall that we may need a spy glass to find our homes; and our children may be too old to go to school by the time we secure one for them. Of course, some of our friends are serenely content to live in their forest of needs which already has blinded their vision till they cannot see the beautiful residence streets upon which are rapidly growing many beautiful homes in Glendale.

Wake up! Women join this league and clean up!

Home Lovers Civic League of North Glendale.

FINED FOR ABUSIVE LANGUAGE.

When Mr. G. B. Woodberry, in his capacity of zanjero for the water company, went into Verduga Canyon Tuesday afternoon, he discovered that Mr. Boswell had taken up some of the company's pipe where it crossed his property. Naturally he expostulated with that gentleman, who in turn became very abusive. As a result Mr. Woodberry had him arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace and using abusive language. The case came up before Judge Melrose at Tropico Wednesday, and Boswell was fined $10. Since then he has written Mr. Woodberry an apologetic letter. Mr. Boswell is the owner of one lot or more along the source of the canyon water supply, and was some time ago prevented by the water company from entering extensively into the chicken business as was his original intention when he settled there.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST, P. T. A.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Seventh Day Adventist school which has been recently organized, held its regular meeting on Monday afternoon. A goodly number of mothers were present and listened to some excellent papers that were read by different members. Some very good music was also heard and plans laid for a very interesting meeting to be held next month. These meetings will be held on the third Monday in each month. A cordial welcome extended to all. Mrs. Nellie Simpson is president and Miss Egers secretary.

Miss Bond, teacher of the lower grades in the Adventist school, is at present in the Sanitarium where she underwent an operation for appendicitis on Wednesday morning.

MERCHANTS' EXHIBIT

A Pronounced Success—Large Attendance

The business men's bazaar under the auspices of the Improvement Association opened Wednesday evening at the K. of P. hall under most favorable conditions. The limitations of the ordinary hall do not allow of a long list of exhibitors, and consequently the number of booths was not as large as if it had been possible to give space to all applicants. As it was, the firms and persons represented by booths are as follows: Glendale Union Parent-Teacher Association, Jewel City Press, J. N. McGillis, Angelus Fruitland Co., Glendale Valley Improvement Association, Glendale News, Jewel City Furniture Co., Guernsey Jewelry Co., Mission Furniture Co., Glendale Carpet Cleaning Co., Homer D. Brown Construction Co., L. W. Chobe Co., Cornwell & Kelty.

There was a crowd present on the opening evening, and the attendance for the second night (after we go to press) will no doubt exceed the first. There was a brief program Wednesday evening, consisting of one or two selections by the West Glendale Orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, a unique and very graceful performance in the shape of an Indian song and dance by little Miss Lucile Hutton, and a violin solo by Mrs. S. G. Biddle. A large number of articles donated for the purpose were raffled off. The candy, ice cream and coffee booths conducted by ladies of the association, Mrs. J. W. Usilton, Mrs. Chamberlain, Mrs. W. J. Lacy and Mrs. C. L. D. Moore, were all a success financially and otherwise. Assisting in these were Misses Margaret Flower, Adeline Jack, Ruth Williams and Winifred Saddler. The Parent-Teachers' Federation had an attractive booth, with a representation of the high school in the background. This display was in charge of Dr. Jessie A. Russell, president of the association, and Miss Margaret Leppelman. Other representatives of the association were present from Eagle Rock, Burbank and Tropico. Recognizing the fact that the proceeds were for a good cause, the people present were generous in their patronage, and the affair was a great financial success. The following individuals and firms were contributors of various articles: D. L. Gregg, Nesom's Drug Store, Brand Boulevard Garage, Wright's Jewelry Store, Newberry's Grocery, Walker's Jewelry Co., Glendale Dye Works, Berman the Tailor, Valley Supply Co., Russell Grocery, the Chocolate Shop, J. B. Brown Music Co. of Los Angeles, Hoo-Lee & Co. of Los Angeles, Mary A. Ayers, Jewel City Press, Gregory Studio, Valley Lumber Co., Glendale Bakery, McArthur's Confectionery, Hodapp & Wiethoff Millinery, G. E. Williams, Glendale Market, Glendale Book Store, Jewel City Restaurant, Glendale Pharmacy, Glendale Theater, Thorp's Grocery, Carney's Shoe Store, People's Store, Al's Barber Shop, Diamond Fruit Co., Superior Electric Co., Peterson's Grocery, Shaver's Grocery, Watson's Nursery, Glendale Feed and Fuel Co.

OUR BANKS

Deposits in Local Institutions Over Half Million—Worthy of More General Support

Half a million dollars is a good deal of money, but that sum falls short of representing the total deposits of the three local banks in the territory comprising Glendale, Tropico, and Casa Verdugo.

These institutions started in the new year with deposits as follows:

First National Bank	$250,000
Bank of Glendale	207,839
Bank of Tropico	107,528

Here is a total of $570,367, which is certainly a good showing. The growth in these several deposits during the year just ended is as follows: First National Bank $39,330; Bank of Glendale, $31,889; Bank of Tropico, $72,558. The latter bank opened its doors Sept. 12th, 1910. The other two institutions were organized in 1905.

This total, as creditable as it is, is far from being what it should be if the local financial institutions were patronized as they should be by the large majority of our people. Probably fully as much more local money goes on deposit in the banks of Los Angeles. The total loans made by these banks, principally to home people, amount to approximately $400,000. The greater part of this amount is advanced for improvements in the community and it is apparent that were the deposits greater the loaning capacity of the banks would be relatively increased and one result would be the building of more homes and an improvement in the quality of those now in existence.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

FRATERNAL BROTHERHOOD DANCE.

The dance given by the Fraternal Brotherhood last Friday evening was attended by members of the order principally. There was excellent music furnished by Smeby's orchestra and the evening was one of the most enjoyable that has been offered by the entertainment committee of the lodge which through the efforts of Mr. Jones as organized, is growing rapidly.

GLENDALE, CAL., JANUARY 26, 1912

Eggs are sixty cents a dozen in New York. This will be hard on many a poor fellow who has a family on his hands who is trying to save money to buy an automobile.

It is to be hoped that farming by dynamite may not prove a success. It is too easy a matter to procure the stuff now and if it should come into more common use, the crimes committed through its agency will no doubt greatly increase in number.

An Assyrian archaeologist declares that the young people of Nineveh six hundred and fifty years before the beginning of the Christian era, were better educated than the children of today. But Nineveh disappeared from the map just the same!

The Woman's Progressive League of Los Angeles finds that there are 670,140 women eligible to register in the state of California. This exceeds the total registration of men in the state, but does not necessarily mean that there are more men than women, the reverse being the case.

A lady came into the tax collector's office one day this week to pay a delinquent city tax. In the course of conversation with that official she expressed her ignorance of the fact that the lot was on the delinquent tax list. "It is advertised in the GLENDALE NEWS," she was told. "Well, I don't take the NEWS," she said, and paid out good money which the information furnished by the local paper would have saved her.

Some citizens of the territory recently annexed to the city of Glendale on the west, express their disappointment at the fact that the city has not done much in the way of street work. For the information of such it may be stated that the streets of that section, need to be remade, not repaired; and this can only be done by the property owners and through their initiative. After the streets are properly constructed at the expense of the adjoining property, the city keeps them in repair out of the general fund. The city will no doubt do something in the way of repair work, but the real need of that section is the permanent improvement of the streets.

Possibly we are mistaken, but it looks to us as if the Wilson presidential balloon has sustained a fatal puncture which will bring it to earth and the scrap heap before the Democratic convention meets next summer. The professor started out very well with some reliable platitudes which the most of us could subscribe to, but when the news leaked out about his ineffectual efforts to get that Carnegie pension, the feet of clay became apparent in the very impressive idol which had been discovered in the state where the mosquito infests the atmosphere and corporations find a law to their liking.

Thirty divorced husbands are now boarded in the Los Angeles county jail, serving sentences for failing to pay their divorced wives alimony. The comforts and privileges allowed in our jails are making them quite popular resorts. For a large proportion of the prisoners serving short sentences for minor crimes, a jail sentence is no very serious matter. It means a very fair lodging place, wholesome though plain food, and an abundance of leisure time in which to read, play cards, converse and have a good loafing time generally. Some day it will be demanded by the people that all inmates of prisons do something in the way of useful work to reimburse society for the expense of taking care of them.

The government will soon have new designs on postage stamps, the most of them being the heads of Washington and Franklin. The craze for things new has evidently filtered into the departments of the government. The old familiar designs upon the pieces of gold coinage have been done away with and in their place we have others which are entirely lacking in artistic beauty. The thing we wonder at is that Washington and Franklin are not considered too much behind the times to any longer serve the purpose of ornamenting anything. Have we not statesmen more up to date? But then the conservatives are still in power at Washington; just wait till the "progressives" begin to do things there. Then we shall substitute for the dignity of Washington, the open countenance of our own Teddy; and for Franklin's wig the pompadour of fighting Bob!

THE DEBT OF LOS ANGELES.

Los Angeles is facing a serious financial problem. Its bonded indebtedness is $24,868,287, or over $70 per capita, and several ambitious projects calling for further bond issues are being agitated by the progressive citizens. Within two years it is desired to finance a municipal railway to San Pedro, build a power distributing system and make harbor improvements. It is estimated that these will cost something like ten million dollars. Eastern bond buyers are apparently not desirous of investing in the securities of a city that seems to think nothing of adding to its indebtedness, trusting to posterity to take care of it. Should no buyer be found for the aqueduct bonds still unsold, the work on the great aqueduct will be brought to a practical standstill. Fortunately the city has strong banking concerns which will probably come to its relief as far as the aqueduct bonds are concerned, but it is probable that the municipal railway proposition will have to be deferred, the improvement of the harbor being of paramount importance.

THE PACIFIC ELECTRIC FREIGHT CARRYING SERVICE.

It was certainly quite proper for the board of trustees at their last meeting to appoint a committee to meet with the general utilities commission in Los Angeles to protest against the Pacific Electric being deprived of the privilege of carrying freight through the city of Los Angeles on their interurban lines. Technically this railroad company has no right to carry freight according to the terms of its franchise, but it would be better for the city of Los Angeles to grant the company this privilege rather than deprive the outside territory of the service. At the same time, however, the action proposed on the part of the city of Los Angeles might not prove injurious to this section, as Tropico and Glendale are traversed by a branch of the Salt Lake road, and as both lines are controlled by the same interests, it would be a comparatively easy matter for the Pacific Electric to connect with the Salt Lake at Tropico, near the cemetery, where they are only a block apart. This done, it would be entirely practicable for the Pacific Electric Co. to have all of its freight hauled out over the Salt Lake and distributed over its own lines here just as at present.

A GOOD TIME PROMISED.

The January committee of the Woman's Twentieth Century Club of Eagle Rock will give a dance and card party at Masonic hall on Friday evening, Jan. 6th. A fine orchestra and other sepcialties have been procured Admission to hall 25 cents. A most enjoyable time is promised all club members and their friends. Glendale people are specially invited to be present.

Residents of the neighborhood of Lomita and Brand are agitated over the announced intention to erect a business block on the southwest corner of those streets. The property belongs to Mr. Cohn of Los Angeles and a house standing on it for some time past is now being moved to a new location on Seventh street. The majority of the residents there object to the encroachment of business houses in that choice residence section.

Mr. Walter L. Johnston came down from Coalinga Saturday and spent two days visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnston of Isabel street. Mr. Johnston is employed on one of the two daily papers in that lively town, and reports business fairly good in the oil field at Coalinga, about 700 wells out of something like 1,000 being producing at the present time.

SAN FERNANDO PEOPLE IN TOWN

Dr. McArthur has during the past week entertained a number of old friends from San Fernando, among them Mr. T. J. Walker, cashier of the San Fernando Bank, and a party of friends, who motored down here Sunday last. E. J. Swinger, a lively real estate man of that city, called on Monday. Wm. C. Rood, another real estate man, was also among those who called during the week. On Tuesday, City Trustee Claubus and City Clerk Harry Caldwell came down to interview City Clerk Woodberry to learn some things about running a municipality, and paid their respects to Dr. McArthur.

FEDERATION MEETING OF PARENT-TEACHER ASSNS.

A federation meeting of Parent-Teacher associations was held Saturday evening in the Glendale high school auditorium. The meeting was one of the most entertaining and interesting of the season. The address given by Judge George H. Hutton of the superior court dealing with the subject of open-air schools in America, was dexteriously handled and gave his audience ideas worthy of contemplation.

A HOME CHRISTENING.

A home christening took place last Sunday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Houston, 1540 Myrtle avenue, when eight tiny tots, all closely related, were christened by their uncle, the Rev. John R. Atwill, dean of the Pro-Cathedral of Sacramento. The water used for the christening was brought from the river Jordan. The little children christened were Richard Henry and Mary Houston, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Alexander of Hermosa Beach. James Houston and Houston Elizabeth, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Jones of Los Angeles. John Houston and Frances Elizabeth, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Alexander of Westgate. Dorothy Marie and Elizabeth Charlotte, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Houston.

The christening was followed by a family dinner at which Rev. and Mrs. Atwill were host and hostess, it being the tenth anniversary of their marriage. Other relatives present were Mrs. Emily Alexander, Mrs. M. M Houston, Mrs. Frank D. Patterson, Dr. E. B. Alexander and Masters Edward Robert, and John H. Atwill, sons of Rev. and Mrs. Atwill.

Miss Georgia Shropshire of Orange, accompanied by Miss Foster, music director of the West Glendale and Tropico schools, favored the assembly with a number of thoroughly delightful vocal selections.

An enjoyable and instructive evening more than repaid those in attendance for their efforts to be present.

CONGREGATIONAL TEAS.

A series of delightful pink teas was started recently by the ladies of the Congregational church for the benefit of the Ladies' Auxiliary of that church and to assist the members in becoming better acquainted with one another as friends and workers of the society.

Mrs. E. H. Willisford started the series at her home when she entertained five of her friends at tea who in turn contributed a small donation for the benefit of the Ladies' Auxiliary and pledged themselves each to entertain five of their friends. The afternoon was devoted to needlework for the use of the auxiliary.

Mrs. J. McRae of 1438 Vine street, Mrs. R. A. Peterson of Adams street, Mrs. J. Westwood of 215 North Maryland, and Mrs. W. S. Nash of 416 N. Maryland, and Mrs. A. C. Ady of Doran street, are those who have already fulfilled their pledge and entertained their friends in this enjoyable fashion.

JUST TALK

Noting the fact that the magazines of the muck-raking class are losing vogue, I am reminded of the "Porcupine," a bellicose weekly published by Horace Bell in Los Angeles some twenty years ago. It was all that its name indicated and for a number of weeks was several kinds of spice, but principally of the horseradish and cayenne order boiled down. It "exposed" ever so many things in local affairs that needed to be reformed and was personal enough to suit the most enthusiastic admirer of personal journalism. But the public did not take it seriously and finally its diatribes became less vitriolic and it died a natural death, after an existence of about a year. The people tire of the common scold. There may be truth in what he says, but there is no use in the world for the professional fault finder.

Major Horace Bell, the editor above mentioned, lives yet, I believe in Los Angeles. He came out here in the early '50s, and was one of the notable picturesque characters of the city until it outgrew him and the small handful of pioneers that yet survive. He was both a writer and a fighter in those days and figured more than once in the police courts on charges of assault. He wrote "Reminiscences of a Ranger," and if you happen to see a copy of it when looking through the secondhand store's collection of old books, you will find it well worth the small price that will probably be placed on it. Many of the early settlers figure in its pages and it contains many a story of the semi-lawless years when Los Angeles was still the little "pueblo" of the Spaniards.

Our recent legislature passed a number of laws that are making a good deal of trouble for some people who are naturally doubtful about their utility. No doubt instances similar to the following could be found in great number by the persistent searcher, but these I have run across just casually. In a bookbinder's establishment in Los Angeles a patron called for a job of work: "Awfully sorry, but it isn't quite done; call again tomorrow," said the proprietor, and then added: "That beautiful eight-hour law is responsible for your disappointment about getting that work. It's almost completed, but the girls had to go home on time. Before the law went into effect, if an hour or two was required to finish an order when five o'clock came, the girls would stay and work overtime, glad of the chance to make something extra. Now when they want to work extra time they have to go to another establishment, while if we want extra work done we have to get girls from another place. They work more than eight hours but they have to go to different places to do it."

Speaking to a banker about this, he said: "Yes, the new legislation gives us a lot of trouble in various ways. For instance, there is the joint account. A husband and wife have an account here upon which either one of them can draw. Heretofore if one of them died the survivor could check on the account as usual, but under the new law when one of them dies, the other is not allowed to draw any of the money until permission has ben granted by the court."

SUCCESSFUL SALE OF LOTS.

The Tupper Robinson Co. in practically one week sold all except a half dozen of their lots in the Phelps tract consisting of the vineyard on the south side of Third street above the school house on the Eagle Rock car line. The following are among the purchasers:

Wm. Neal, of New Mexico, two lots; Mrs. Catherine Lewis, of Kenwood street, five lots; Ray Goode, one lot; D. Carney, two lots; Frank Zerr, large corner lot; Rev. Edmonds, corner lot; F. H. Vesper, one lot; J. H. Livingston one lot; Miss Nevin, Eagle Rock, one lot; Miss Monette, Los Angeles, one lot; Wm. Evans, one lot; Mrs. Andrews, one lot; J. W. Stauffacher, one lot; Mrs. Rice, one lot (also buys five lots on East Sixth street); Miss Alice Frank, oen lot; Leon C. Sonntag, one lot; Mrs. Klamm, two lots; J. P. Lukens, one lot; Wallace Tupper, one lot.

A fifty-foot street is to be opened along the west side (Childs tract line) and another through the center of the tract north and south, work beginning this week. As these sales are mostly to local buyers, it indicates that our own people are ready to invest in anything in the way of local real estate that appeals to them on its merits. These lots are larger than the average, a fact which in itself aside from other merits possessed by the property appeals to the average home builder. The smaller lots are not in favor with the home buyers of the neighborhood.

LOS ANGELES THEATRES

BURBANK THEATER—A TRIO OF NEW PLAYERS IN "THE WIFE."

"The Wife," one of David Belasco and H. C. DeMille's most notable and successful American comedy-dramas, will be played this week by the Burbank stock company.

The performance will be one of the chief events of the season, inasmuch as it will introduce a trio of new members of the Burbank stock company—Virginia Brissac, the new leading woman; Lola May, an ingenue, and Walter D. Green, who will have the parts that are commonly known as seconds, or "heavies."

Miss Brissac is no stranger to Los Angeles audiences. Several years ago she was recognized as one of the best ingenues that ever pleased a local audience, and since leaving this city she has won a good deal of experience in leading roles. She gives every promise of being one of the cleverest of the numerous popular leading actresses the Burbank stage has ever had, and as she is known to possess admitted dramatic ability of a high order, and is young, good looking, and thoroughly experienced, she comes to the Burbank organization splendidly equipped to head the feminine contingent of the company. Miss May has earned a distinctly fine reputation as an ingenue of uncommon merits in Eastern companies of high class, and it is pretty certain that she will become an immediate favorite with the Burbank patrons. Walter D. Green is an actor of ripe experience in a wide range of exciting roles; he is familiar with the requirements of "stock" work, and as he is a fine looking, manly fellow, he should add no little strength to the Burbank casts.

"The Wife" is scheduled for a single week on the Burbank stage. It will be followed by "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which will have its first stock production anywhere at the hands of the Morosco-Blackwood organization.

BELASCO THEATER—THIRD WEEK OF "ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE."

Paul Armstrong's vigorous and unusual play, "Alias Jimmy Valentine," continues to crowd the Belasco at every performance, and so great does the demand for seats for this remarkable performance continue that the play will be kep on for another—the third week—commencing Monday night.

The local stage has not known such a really substantial success as "Alias Jimmy Valentine" in a long time. Much speculation was indulged in prior to the first performance as to just what a stock company would be able to do with a play that holds so many difficult roles as does this Armstrong drama. All doubts were uqickly brushed aside with the first performance, and the critical opinion was quite unanimous that the Belasco presentation was in many respects superior to that given by the traveling company seen here a few months ago. That local playgoers have concurred in this expression has been eloquently and forcibly proved by the constant line of ticket buyers that have been observed in front of the Belasco box office and the resultant packed houses that have greeted the Belasco players in the Valentine piece.

William Gibson's earnest, convincing and quite natural assumption of the role of Jimmy Valentine is so thoroughly good and clever that his work has been most favorably likened unto that of H. B. Warner, the original in the part, which is praise of a superlative order. The Detective Doyle of Thomas MacLarnie is a character sketching that at once distinguished the actor as an artist of rare ability and experience. Such well established Belasco favorites as Donald Bowles, Robert Ober, Bessie Barriscale, Howard Hickman, John Burton, Helene Sullivan and others of the Belasco company are seen in excellent parts in the play.

When "Alias Jimmy Valentine" ceases to interest the public to the extent that it has for the past fortnight, the Belasco company will give, for the first time in the entire West, Joseph Medill Patterson's great newspaper play, "The Fourth Estate."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE, "THE CAMPUS" TO RUN A THIRD WEEK.

When announcement was made by the management of the Grand Opera house that owing to the great demand for seats for "The Campus," that the rousing musical comedy success by Walter de Leon would be continued a second week, it was thought the demand would be satisfied by the second week, but such is not the case, however. The demand for seats for the various performances of "The Campus" gains impetus every moment and now it is necessary to announce a third week of the record-breaking attraction. Never before in the history of theatricals has any musical comedy been presented originally by a stock company for sixteen weeks, and the next season been revived and begin a stronger run than when originally offered.

Kindness to Animals.

Far out on the very edge of town is a little schoolhouse, the first and second grades of which are commanded by a pretty little normal school graduate. Her pupils are all sons and daughters of the warmer sort of impulsive foreigners and have all reached a state of adoration for their queen and vie with each other in ways to please her. One day she had dwelt especially upon loving and caring for dumb animals. The next day little Pietro remained in his seat when his schoolmates dropped out to play. Teacher was busy at her desk and did not notice him until she felt a little fist tugging at her sleeve.

"Why, Pietro," she exclaimed, "what is the trouble?"

"Nothin', teacher. I just wanted to tell you how I was good to dumb animals yesterday," he promptly replied.

"Why, isn't that nice? Pietro, just what did you do?"

Pietro drew himself up to his full three feet and proudly asserted:

"I kissed the cat."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Inertia of Bodies.

Lay a visiting card on the tip of the left forefinger and on it place a penny. A quick flick of the card with the right second finger will remove the card without disturbing the coin. Another trick which illustrates the inertia of bodies is to knock away the bottom of a pile of draftsmen without upsetting the pile. This is effected quite easily with the help of a flat ruler. The remaining draftsmen are removed successively by a number of smart blows.

A more spectacular and apparently risky trick consists of drawing a newspaper away from under a glass filled with water. Provided, however, that the table is smooth and the paper be pulled away smartly and horizontally there is no danger of the water being spilled. A certain well known conjurer is able to remove the tablecloth from under knives, glasses, plates, etc., as laid for a meal without disarranging them or doing any damage.

Proof of a Conspiracy.

The following story is told in explanation of the reason why the teaching of chemistry in Turkish schools was forbidden some years ago. It had been proposed that this science should be added to the curriculum, but the first thing that struck the eyes of the ruler of the faithful on opening an elementary textbook of chemistry was the formula for water, H2O. "Here," said the sultan, "is proof of a conspiracy to undermine my authority in the eyes of my subjects. H two O! That's nothing but a sly way of intimating that Hamid II. is a naught."

CHAPTER XII.

THE LOGIC OF YOUTH.

She nodded her head ruefully.

"That's what I wanted to say, but it sounds different on your lips. It sounds as though you meant it yourself and that you meant it because of me. Well, I am going to bed. Let me be your partner and you'll see me rattle the dry bones of the Solomons. Confess, I've rattled yours already."

"I should say so," he answered. "Really, you know, you have. I never received such a dressing down in my life. If any one had ever told me that I'd be a party even to the present situation— Yes, I confess you have rattled my dry bones pretty considerably."

"But that is nothing to the rattling they are going to get," she assured him as he rose and took her hand. "Good night. And do, do give me a rational decision in the morning."

"I wish I knew whether you are merely headstrong or whether you really intend to be a Solomon planter," Sheldon said in the morning at breakfast.

"I wish you were more adaptable," Joan retorted. "You have more preconceived notions than any man I ever met. Why in the name of common sense, in the name of—fair play, can't you get it into your head that I am different from the women you have known and treat me accordingly? You surely ought to know I am different. I sailed my own schooner here—skipper, if you please. I came here to make my living. You know that; I've told you often enough. It was dad's plan, and I'm carrying it out, just as you are trying to carry out your Hughie's plan. Dad started to sail and sail until he could find the proper islands for planting. He died, and I sailed and sailed until I arrived here. Well," she shrugged her shoulders, "the schooner is at the bottom of the sea; I can't sail any farther; therefore I remain here. And a planter I shall certainly be. Do you want me for a partner?"

"But do you realize that I would be looked upon as the most foolish jackanapes in the south seas if I took a young girl like you in with me here on Berande?" he asked.

"No; decidedly not. But there you are again, worrying about what idiots and the generally evil minded will think of you. I should have thought you had learned self reliance on Berande, instead of needing to lean upon the moral support of every whisky guzzling, worthless south sea vagabond."

He smiled and said:

"Yes, that is the worst of it. You are unanswerable. Yours is the logic of youth, and no man can answer that. The facts of life have no place in the logic of youth. Youth must try to live according to its logic. The facts always smash youth's logic, and they usually smash youth's heart, too. It's like platonic friendships and—and all such things; they are all right in theory, but they won't work in practice.

"Suppose we do become partners on Berande," he said, "either I'll fall in love with you or you with me. Propinquity is dangerous, you know. In fact, it is propinquity that usually gives the facer to the logic of youth."

"If you think I came to the Solomons to get married," she began wrathfully. "Well, there are better men in Hawaii, that's all. Really, you know, the way you harp on that one string would lead an unprejudiced listener to conclude that you are prurient minded"—

She stopped, appalled. His face had gone red and white with such abruptness as to startle her. He was patently very angry. She sipped the last of her coffee, and arose, saying:

"I'll wait until you are in a better temper before taking up the discussion again. That is what's the matter with you. You get angry too easily. Will you come swimming? The tide is just right."

"If she were a man, I'd bundle her off the plantation, root and crop, whaleboat, Tahitian sailors, sovereigns, and all," he said to himself after she had left the room.

But that was the trouble. She was not a man, and where would she go, and what would happen to her?

He got to his feet, lighted a cigarette, and her Stetson hat, hanging on the wall over her revolver belt, caught his eye. That was the devil of it, too. He did not want her to go. After all, she had not grown up yet. Never again would he lose his temper with her. She was a child; he must remember that. He sighed heavily. But why in reasonableness had such a child been incorporated in such a woman's form?

Her trilling laughter smote upon his reverie and he stepped to the screen door, through which he could see her running down the path to the beach. At her heels ran two of her sailors, Papehara and Mahameme, in scarlet lava-lavas, with naked sheath knives gleaming in their belts. It was another sample of her wilfulness. Despite entreaties and commands, and warnings of the dangers from sharks, she persisted in swimming at any and all times, and by special preference, it seemed to him, immediately after eating.

He watched her take the water, diving cleanly like a boy, from the end of the little pier, and he watched her strike out, with single overhand stroke, her henchmen swimming a dozen feet away on either side. He did not have much faith in their ability to beat off a hungry man eater, though he did believe implicitly that their lives would go bravely before hers in case of an attack.

Straight out they swam, their heads growing smaller and smaller. There was a slight restless heave to the sea, and soon the three heads were disappearing behind it with greater frequency. He strained his eyes to keep them in sight, and finally fetched the telescope on to the veranda. A squall was making over from the direction of Florida; but then she and her men laughed at squalls and the white, choppy sea at such times.

The squall blackened the sky, beat the ocean white where he had last seen the three heads, and then blotted out sea and sky and everything with its deluge of rain. It passed on, and Berande emerged in the bright sunshine as the three swimmers emerged from the sea. Sheldon slipped inside with the telescope and through the screen door watched her run up the path, shaking down her hair as she ran, to the fresh water shower under the house.

On the veranda that afternoon he broached the proposition of a chaperon as delicately as he could, explaining the necessity at Berande for such a body, a housekeeper to run the boys and the storeroom and perform divers other useful functions. When he had finished he waited anxiously for what Joan would say.

"Then you don't like the way I've been managing the house?" was her first objection. And next, brushing his attempted explanations aside: "One of two things would happen. Either I should cancel our partnership agreement and go away, leaving you to get another chaperon to chaperon your chaperon, or else I'd take the old hen out in the whaleboat and drown her. Do you imagine for one moment that I sailed my schooner down here to this raw edge of the earth in order to put myself under a chaperon?"

"But, really—er—you know—a chaperon is a necessary evil," he objected.

"We've got along nicely so far without one. Did I have one on the Miele? And yet I was the only woman on board. There are only three things I am afraid of—bumblebees, scarlet fever and chaperon. Ugh, the clucking, evil minded monsters, finding wrong in everything, seeing sin in the most innocent actions and suggesting sin—yes, causing sin by their diseased imaginings!"

"Phew!" Sheldon leaned back from the table in mock fear.

"As if anything good were worth while when it has to be guarded and put in leg irons and handcuffs in order to keep it good. Your desire for a chaperon as much as implies that I am that sort of a creature. I prefer to be good because it is good to be good rather than because I can't be bad because some Argus eyed old frump won't let me have a chance to be bad."

"But it—it is not that," he put in. "It is what others will think."

"Let them think, the nasty minded wretches! It is because men like you are afraid of the nasty minded that you allow their opinions to rule you."

"I am afraid you are a female Shelley," he replied. "And as such you really drive me to become your partner in order to protect you."

"If you take me as a partner in order to protect me—I—I sha'n't be your partner, that's all. You'll drive me into buying Pari-Sulay yet."

"All the more reason"— he attempted.

"Do you know what I'll do?" she demanded. "I'll find some man in the Solomons who won't want to protect me."

Sheldon could not conceal the shock her words gave him.

"You don't mean that, you know," he pleaded.

"I do; I really do. I am sick and tired of this protection dodge. Don't forget for a moment that I am perfectly able to take care of myself. Besides, I have eight of the best protectors in the world—my sailors. You were living like a savage when I came along and found you—eating nothing but tinned meat and scones that would have ruined the digestion of a camel. Anyway, I've remedied that, and since we are to be partners, it will stay remedied. You won't die of malnutrition, be sure of that."

"If we enter into partnership," he announced, "it must be thoroughly understood that you are not allowed to run the schooner. You can go down to Sydney and buy her, but a skipper we must have —

"At so much additional expense and most likely a whiskey drinking, irresponsible and incapable man to boot. Besides, I'd have the business more at heart than any man we could hire. As for capability, I tell you I can sail all around the average broken captain or promoted able seaman you find in the south seas. And you know I am a navigator."

"But being my partner," he said coolly, "makes you none the less a lady."

"Thank you for telling me that my contemplated conduct is unladylike."

She arose, tears of anger and mortification in her eyes, and went over to the phonograph.

"I wonder if all men are as ridiculous as you?" she said.

He shrugged his shoulders and smiled. Discussion was useless—he had learned that; and he was resolved to keep his temper. And before the day was out she capitulated. She was to go to Sydney on the first steamer, purchase the schooner, and sail back with an island skipper on board. And then she inveigled Sheldon into agreeing that she could take occasional cruises in the islands, though he was adamant when it came to a recruiting trip on Malaita. That was the one thing barred.

And after it was all over, and a terse and businesslike agreement (by her urging) drawn up and signed, Sheldon paced up and down for a full hour, meditating upon how many different kinds of a fool he had made of himself. He had never seen a more independent woman who stood more in need of a protector than this boy minded girl who had landed on his beach with eight picturesque savages, a long barreled revolver, a bag of gold, and a gaudy merchandise of imagined romance and adventure.

He had never read of anything to compare with it. He smoked cigarette after cigarette. Satan, back from a prowl around the compound, ran up to him and touched his hand with a cold, damp nose. Sheldon caressed the animal's ears, then threw himself into a chair and laughed heartily. What would the commissioner of the Solomons think? What would his people at home think? And in the one breath he was glad that the partnership had been effected and sorry that Joan Lackland had ever come to the Solomons. Then he went inside and looked at himself in a hand mirror. He studied the reflection long and thoughtfully and wonderingly.

GOOD ADVICE FOR GLENDALE PEOPLE

People in Glendale who have constipation, sour stomach or gas on the stomach, should use simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adler-i-ka, the new German appendicitis remedy. A SINGLE DOSE brings relief almost INSTANTLY because this simple mixture antiseptic izes the digestive organs and drains the impurities. J. J. Nesom.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The meeting of this organization last Tuesday afternoon at the rooms of the Country Club on Brand boulevard was well attended and those present enjoyed an instructive and interesting program. The day was in charge of the civics committee, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman. Mrs. Mattison B. Jones rendered a piano solo by an American composer which was highly appreciated. The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Charles Farwell Edson of Los Angeles whose subject was the City Beautiful. Mr. Edson spoke with an enthusiasm which indicated his earnestness in appealing for the cause of civic beauty to civic pride. He stated that to accomplish beautiful things in civic life, there is required back of all effort in this direction beautiful hearts and minds. To accomplish results the plans for the whole city must be considered first rather than individual ideas. He urged a greater feeling of pride in American authors and artists in preference to the output of foreigners. He showed his own faith in this idea after the program was otherwise completed by singing three selections from American composers, stating that they were his three favorite songs. Two of these were by Tom Jones, the other was entitled "Mother Mine." Mr. Edson has a fine voice and his singing was greatly enjoyed. Miss Mee of Los Angeles sang two selections accompanied by Miss Lillian Ward. The principal business attended to was the appointment of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett to serve on the executive board in place of Mrs. Hinckley, resigned from the board.

A MIX-UP ON FOURTH STREET

There was a little excitement caused last Friday afternoon on Fourth street near Glendale avenue by a combination composed of a fractious team, an equally fractious laundryman from Los Angeles, policeman Jim Everett and a number of citizens. It was a two-horse team on the edge of a runaway, caused by the wagon tongue dropping down on the street. Officer Everett went to the assistance of the driver, leaving his wheel at the edge of the curb. The laundryman driving along was careless in his driving and the wheels of his vehicle passed over the officer's bicycle, doing very little damage. When he had gone a block away a bystander told the officer that his wheel had been run over, so the laundryman was pursued and brought back. He denied vehemently that he had run over anything and was abusive of several citizens who asserted that he had done so. Among these was Mr. J. A. Sparks who had seen the whole affair and told the officer positively that the testimony of other bystanders was correct. This the laundryman resented in a very insulting manner, declaring his belief that Mr. Sparks was a liar of several kinds, whereupon, after fair warning the fist of Mr. Sparks shot out with some force and in the language of the prize ring, "landed on" the laundryman's face, causing that personage to call for the protection of the officer whose wheel he had damaged. Mr. Sparks was arrested, but the complaining witness did not appear against him when the case came before Recorder Whomes Saturday morning and the incident is presumably closed.

The Color Cure.

To cure smallpox was apparently a very simple matter in the good old times. John of Gaddesdon, court doctor to Edward II., has recorded that he got rid of the disease by the simple expedient of wrapping his patients in red cloth. "Let scarlet red be taken," he says, "and let him who is suffering smallpox be entirely wrapped in it or in some other red cloth. I did thus when the son of the illustrious king of England suffered from smallpox. I took care that all about his bed should be red, and that cure succeeded very well."—London Tatler.
